

DEMOCRATIC LEAGUERS MEET

DEMAND A DIRECT NOMINATION PLANK IN PLATFORM.

Thomas M. Osborne, who has been going to the State convention for upward of half a century, cannot recall a time when there was a bigger crop of candidates. The feeling is so strong throughout the party that the G. O. P. will be defeated in November that most anybody is willing to run for office. It has been figured out that there are 126 candidates for the seven nominations, twelve for Governor.

"Have you heard the latest news?" said Congressman William (Henry Clay) Sulzer in the lobby of the Seneca Hotel this evening. "In the confusion upstairs a delegate was pushed into the Osborne headquarters."

The convention presents two sartorial exhibits, Packy McCabe, leader of Albany county, and John H. McCreary, McCarty's successor in Kings. The Hon. Packy appeared with a four-in-hand scarf of the latest Baccus shade, the new tint which is between red and rose. His waistcoat was Woodruffian. Mr. McCreary changed religiously from morning civility to afternoon frocks, keeping speckless and immaculate.

The delegates are saying that they would rather convene in Rochester than any other city save New York, but that there is such a thing as overdoing hospitality. Congressman Francis Burton Harrison, who holds levee at the Powers House, said this morning that the band hired by the Chamber of Commerce played until 3 o'clock this morning.

"And when I woke up it was sitting on my bed," said Harrison.

Rochester is vain of its cantaloupes. They grow them big and sweet, and red-fleshed in this country and the gardeners were asked to produce all they could of their best crop for the delectation of the Democrats. A good many folks have contracted for a supply to take home with them.

"Can't match them in New York," said Arthur McLean, the Newburgh leader.

The lobby of the Whitecomb was jammed this afternoon with candidates and delegates when a bellhop twisted through the crowd singing out "William F. Hearst, William F. Hearst." For half a moment the hour of talk stopped. There was a movement toward the desk. Here is the appeal made to the clerk.

"Say, if Mr. Hearst has come here tell me his room number. I have an appointment with him."

There was a good deal of surprise today when the candidacy of Supreme Court Justice James A. Betts of Ulster county was placed in all of the hotel lobbies. It was commented on generally that such advertising was most unusual on the part of the judicial candidates or their managers.

Edward M. Shepard, one of the leading candidates for Governor and chairman of the platform committee, is one of the roughest men in convention preliminaries. Mr. Shepard brought three secretaries with him from New York and the click of their typewriters is heard until late in the night.

Mrs. William Sulzer, wife of the Congressman, is something of a campaigner herself. While the Congressman is conducting an energetic campaign, she is also busy trying to help him realize his ambitions. She visits all of the headquarters of the delegations and has a smile and a pleasant word for everybody.

Hiram Edgerton, Republican Mayor of Rochester, is staying up late trying to make things pleasant for the Democratic visitors. Mr. Edgerton's ample figure, black statesman's hat and rather old-fashioned long-tailed coat is seen in the lobby until the tiny hours. If Terence O'Brien, a Tammany dock inspector, teased the Mayor by telling him that the information of Main street laid all over Broadway's electric show.

One of the topics most discussed today was whether Charles F. Murphy, ex-Mayor of New York, would be seen in the lobby until the tiny hours. If Terence O'Brien, a Tammany dock inspector, teased the Mayor by telling him that the information of Main street laid all over Broadway's electric show.

Ex-Sheriff Robt. Chandler of Dutchess county, whose name has appeared pretty frequently of late in the news from Paris, is out of politics. Word came to the delegates today that Edward E. Perkins of Poughkeepsie, a successful Robert Warrup's attorney, had laid all over Broadway's electric show.

Some of the strong arm work done in the Carnegie Hall convention two years ago will be undone here. A number of men who were put on the State committee at that time will be shelved. Charles A. Rattigan, editor of the Auburn Citizen, will succeed William R. Harper, and William S. Townsend of Utica will take Harry S. Patten's place. Talking to the Saratoga rough house one of the leaders said today.

"Roosevelt's cleanup at Saratoga lost anything. Finny (Conners) did in Carnegie Hall, and Finny's methods were not gentle."

The young spearheads of the party are already in demand for stump tours. Francis Cullen of Oswego, now practicing law in Watertown as a member of Judge Purcell's firm, made a great hit two years ago, and the State committee has picked him as one of the stars of the coming campaign.

William Temple Emmet, a descendant of the famous Irish martyr, who is here, is a leader of the Democratic League of New York County and is attracting a good deal of attention. He is a picturesque and interesting figure and he is constantly pointed out to the Irish delegates as a man with the blood of Robert Emmet in his veins.

Rochester is making a strong bid for the name of the most hospitable town in the State and the friendliness of the people is suggested by the "Ask Me" buttons appearing everywhere today. Some mucky pretty Rochester girls are wearing the button.

One of the men they count out to you here is John FitzGibbon, the labor Mayor of Oswego, who won his place with the biggest majority on record in that town. They call him the "Oswego" because he has made out to take the whole job. He is a fighter and if the convention forgets to be good he is apt to take a hand.

Congressman Sulzer has all the other aspirants for the head of the ticket lined up in the matter of picture display. There is a large one, which shows to advantage the famous Sulzer forehead hanging from a gold-framed banner over a desk in the Seneca Hotel, and smaller ones decorated every pillar. There is a strong likeness between Mr. Sulzer and J. E. Doherty, who is appearing here in "The House Next Door."

The House Next Door is a young woman with an autograph album was trying to catch up with the Congressman as he chased his room about the hotel today.

HELD AS A SPY UNDER BAIL. German Officer Will Be Tried for Sketching English Fortifications.

Portsmouth, Sept. 20.—Lieut. Siegfried Helm, a German army officer, was arrested while making sketches of the fortifications here in the early part of the month and was committed for trial today by a magistrate.

Helm was released under $500 bail.

ROMAN HIT BY AUTO BUS. Boston Police Asked to Find A. Pell, Who Was Released After Arrest.

Boston, Sept. 20.—A fatal crash occurred yesterday night, when a horse-drawn carriage was struck by a motor car, killing a man and wounding a woman.

LIVE TOPICS OF THE CONVENTION.

ROCHESTER, Sept. 20.—Democrats who have been going to the State convention for upward of half a century cannot recall a time when there was a bigger crop of candidates. The feeling is so strong throughout the party that the G. O. P. will be defeated in November that most anybody is willing to run for office. It has been figured out that there are 126 candidates for the seven nominations, twelve for Governor.

"Have you heard the latest news?" said Congressman William (Henry Clay) Sulzer in the lobby of the Seneca Hotel this evening. "In the confusion upstairs a delegate was pushed into the Osborne headquarters."

The convention presents two sartorial exhibits, Packy McCabe, leader of Albany county, and John H. McCreary, McCarty's successor in Kings. The Hon. Packy appeared with a four-in-hand scarf of the latest Baccus shade, the new tint which is between red and rose. His waistcoat was Woodruffian. Mr. McCreary changed religiously from morning civility to afternoon frocks, keeping speckless and immaculate.

The delegates are saying that they would rather convene in Rochester than any other city save New York, but that there is such a thing as overdoing hospitality. Congressman Francis Burton Harrison, who holds levee at the Powers House, said this morning that the band hired by the Chamber of Commerce played until 3 o'clock this morning.

"And when I woke up it was sitting on my bed," said Harrison.

Rochester is vain of its cantaloupes. They grow them big and sweet, and red-fleshed in this country and the gardeners were asked to produce all they could of their best crop for the delectation of the Democrats. A good many folks have contracted for a supply to take home with them.

"Can't match them in New York," said Arthur McLean, the Newburgh leader.

The lobby of the Whitecomb was jammed this afternoon with candidates and delegates when a bellhop twisted through the crowd singing out "William F. Hearst, William F. Hearst." For half a moment the hour of talk stopped. There was a movement toward the desk. Here is the appeal made to the clerk.

"Say, if Mr. Hearst has come here tell me his room number. I have an appointment with him."

There was a good deal of surprise today when the candidacy of Supreme Court Justice James A. Betts of Ulster county was placed in all of the hotel lobbies. It was commented on generally that such advertising was most unusual on the part of the judicial candidates or their managers.

Edward M. Shepard, one of the leading candidates for Governor and chairman of the platform committee, is one of the roughest men in convention preliminaries. Mr. Shepard brought three secretaries with him from New York and the click of their typewriters is heard until late in the night.

Mrs. William Sulzer, wife of the Congressman, is something of a campaigner herself. While the Congressman is conducting an energetic campaign, she is also busy trying to help him realize his ambitions. She visits all of the headquarters of the delegations and has a smile and a pleasant word for everybody.

Hiram Edgerton, Republican Mayor of Rochester, is staying up late trying to make things pleasant for the Democratic visitors. Mr. Edgerton's ample figure, black statesman's hat and rather old-fashioned long-tailed coat is seen in the lobby until the tiny hours. If Terence O'Brien, a Tammany dock inspector, teased the Mayor by telling him that the information of Main street laid all over Broadway's electric show.

One of the topics most discussed today was whether Charles F. Murphy, ex-Mayor of New York, would be seen in the lobby until the tiny hours. If Terence O'Brien, a Tammany dock inspector, teased the Mayor by telling him that the information of Main street laid all over Broadway's electric show.

Ex-Sheriff Robt. Chandler of Dutchess county, whose name has appeared pretty frequently of late in the news from Paris, is out of politics. Word came to the delegates today that Edward E. Perkins of Poughkeepsie, a successful Robert Warrup's attorney, had laid all over Broadway's electric show.

Some of the strong arm work done in the Carnegie Hall convention two years ago will be undone here. A number of men who were put on the State committee at that time will be shelved. Charles A. Rattigan, editor of the Auburn Citizen, will succeed William R. Harper, and William S. Townsend of Utica will take Harry S. Patten's place. Talking to the Saratoga rough house one of the leaders said today.

"Roosevelt's cleanup at Saratoga lost anything. Finny (Conners) did in Carnegie Hall, and Finny's methods were not gentle."

The young spearheads of the party are already in demand for stump tours. Francis Cullen of Oswego, now practicing law in Watertown as a member of Judge Purcell's firm, made a great hit two years ago, and the State committee has picked him as one of the stars of the coming campaign.

William Temple Emmet, a descendant of the famous Irish martyr, who is here, is a leader of the Democratic League of New York County and is attracting a good deal of attention. He is a picturesque and interesting figure and he is constantly pointed out to the Irish delegates as a man with the blood of Robert Emmet in his veins.

Rochester is making a strong bid for the name of the most hospitable town in the State and the friendliness of the people is suggested by the "Ask Me" buttons appearing everywhere today. Some mucky pretty Rochester girls are wearing the button.

One of the men they count out to you here is John FitzGibbon, the labor Mayor of Oswego, who won his place with the biggest majority on record in that town. They call him the "Oswego" because he has made out to take the whole job. He is a fighter and if the convention forgets to be good he is apt to take a hand.

Congressman Sulzer has all the other aspirants for the head of the ticket lined up in the matter of picture display. There is a large one, which shows to advantage the famous Sulzer forehead hanging from a gold-framed banner over a desk in the Seneca Hotel, and smaller ones decorated every pillar. There is a strong likeness between Mr. Sulzer and J. E. Doherty, who is appearing here in "The House Next Door."

The House Next Door is a young woman with an autograph album was trying to catch up with the Congressman as he chased his room about the hotel today.

HELD AS A SPY UNDER BAIL. German Officer Will Be Tried for Sketching English Fortifications.

Portsmouth, Sept. 20.—Lieut. Siegfried Helm, a German army officer, was arrested while making sketches of the fortifications here in the early part of the month and was committed for trial today by a magistrate.

Helm was released under $500 bail.

ROMAN HIT BY AUTO BUS. Boston Police Asked to Find A. Pell, Who Was Released After Arrest.

Boston, Sept. 20.—A fatal crash occurred yesterday night, when a horse-drawn carriage was struck by a motor car, killing a man and wounding a woman.

HELD AS A SPY UNDER BAIL. German Officer Will Be Tried for Sketching English Fortifications.

WITH GAYNOR OUT IT'S AN OPEN RACE

IT'S AN OPEN RACE

ROCHESTER, Sept. 20.—Democrats who have been going to the State convention for upward of half a century cannot recall a time when there was a bigger crop of candidates. The feeling is so strong throughout the party that the G. O. P. will be defeated in November that most anybody is willing to run for office. It has been figured out that there are 126 candidates for the seven nominations, twelve for Governor.

"Have you heard the latest news?" said Congressman William (Henry Clay) Sulzer in the lobby of the Seneca Hotel this evening. "In the confusion upstairs a delegate was pushed into the Osborne headquarters."

The convention presents two sartorial exhibits, Packy McCabe, leader of Albany county, and John H. McCreary, McCarty's successor in Kings. The Hon. Packy appeared with a four-in-hand scarf of the latest Baccus shade, the new tint which is between red and rose. His waistcoat was Woodruffian. Mr. McCreary changed religiously from morning civility to afternoon frocks, keeping speckless and immaculate.

The delegates are saying that they would rather convene in Rochester than any other city save New York, but that there is such a thing as overdoing hospitality. Congressman Francis Burton Harrison, who holds levee at the Powers House, said this morning that the band hired by the Chamber of Commerce played until 3 o'clock this morning.

"And when I woke up it was sitting on my bed," said Harrison.

Rochester is vain of its cantaloupes. They grow them big and sweet, and red-fleshed in this country and the gardeners were asked to produce all they could of their best crop for the delectation of the Democrats. A good many folks have contracted for a supply to take home with them.

"Can't match them in New York," said Arthur McLean, the Newburgh leader.

The lobby of the Whitecomb was jammed this afternoon with candidates and delegates when a bellhop twisted through the crowd singing out "William F. Hearst, William F. Hearst." For half a moment the hour of talk stopped. There was a movement toward the desk. Here is the appeal made to the clerk.

"Say, if Mr. Hearst has come here tell me his room number. I have an appointment with him."

There was a good deal of surprise today when the candidacy of Supreme Court Justice James A. Betts of Ulster county was placed in all of the hotel lobbies. It was commented on generally that such advertising was most unusual on the part of the judicial candidates or their managers.

Edward M. Shepard, one of the leading candidates for Governor and chairman of the platform committee, is one of the roughest men in convention preliminaries. Mr. Shepard brought three secretaries with him from New York and the click of their typewriters is heard until late in the night.

Mrs. William Sulzer, wife of the Congressman, is something of a campaigner herself. While the Congressman is conducting an energetic campaign, she is also busy trying to help him realize his ambitions. She visits all of the headquarters of the delegations and has a smile and a pleasant word for everybody.

Hiram Edgerton, Republican Mayor of Rochester, is staying up late trying to make things pleasant for the Democratic visitors. Mr. Edgerton's ample figure, black statesman's hat and rather old-fashioned long-tailed coat is seen in the lobby until the tiny hours. If Terence O'Brien, a Tammany dock inspector, teased the Mayor by telling him that the information of Main street laid all over Broadway's electric show.

One of the topics most discussed today was whether Charles F. Murphy, ex-Mayor of New York, would be seen in the lobby until the tiny hours. If Terence O'Brien, a Tammany dock inspector, teased the Mayor by telling him that the information of Main street laid all over Broadway's electric show.

Ex-Sheriff Robt. Chandler of Dutchess county, whose name has appeared pretty frequently of late in the news from Paris, is out of politics. Word came to the delegates today that Edward E. Perkins of Poughkeepsie, a successful Robert Warrup's attorney, had laid all over Broadway's electric show.

Some of the strong arm work done in the Carnegie Hall convention two years ago will be undone here. A number of men who were put on the State committee at that time will be shelved. Charles A. Rattigan, editor of the Auburn Citizen, will succeed William R. Harper, and William S. Townsend of Utica will take Harry S. Patten's place. Talking to the Saratoga rough house one of the leaders said today.

"Roosevelt's cleanup at Saratoga lost anything. Finny (Conners) did in Carnegie Hall, and Finny's methods were not gentle."

The young spearheads of the party are already in demand for stump tours. Francis Cullen of Oswego, now practicing law in Watertown as a member of Judge Purcell's firm, made a great hit two years ago, and the State committee has picked him as one of the stars of the coming campaign.

William Temple Emmet, a descendant of the famous Irish martyr, who is here, is a leader of the Democratic League of New York County and is attracting a good deal of attention. He is a picturesque and interesting figure and he is constantly pointed out to the Irish delegates as a man with the blood of Robert Emmet in his veins.

Rochester is making a strong bid for the name of the most hospitable town in the State and the friendliness of the people is suggested by the "Ask Me" buttons appearing everywhere today. Some mucky pretty Rochester girls are wearing the button.

One of the men they count out to you here is John FitzGibbon, the labor Mayor of Oswego, who won his place with the biggest majority on record in that town. They call him the "Oswego" because he has made out to take the whole job. He is a fighter and if the convention forgets to be good he is apt to take a hand.

Congressman Sulzer has all the other aspirants for the head of the ticket lined up in the matter of picture display. There is a large one, which shows to advantage the famous Sulzer forehead hanging from a gold-framed banner over a desk in the Seneca Hotel, and smaller ones decorated every pillar. There is a strong likeness between Mr. Sulzer and J. E. Doherty, who is appearing here in "The House Next Door."

The House Next Door is a young woman with an autograph album was trying to catch up with the Congressman as he chased his room about the hotel today.

HELD AS A SPY UNDER BAIL. German Officer Will Be Tried for Sketching English Fortifications.

Portsmouth, Sept. 20.—Lieut. Siegfried Helm, a German army officer, was arrested while making sketches of the fortifications here in the early part of the month and was committed for trial today by a magistrate.

Helm was released under $500 bail.

ROMAN HIT BY AUTO BUS. Boston Police Asked to Find A. Pell, Who Was Released After Arrest.

Boston, Sept. 20.—A fatal crash occurred yesterday night, when a horse-drawn carriage was struck by a motor car, killing a man and wounding a woman.

HELD AS A SPY UNDER BAIL. German Officer Will Be Tried for Sketching English Fortifications.

TAMMANY HOLDS THE TRUMP CARD.

TAMMANY HOLDS THE TRUMP CARD.

ROCHESTER, Sept. 20.—Democrats who have been going to the State convention for upward of half a century cannot recall a time when there was a bigger crop of candidates. The feeling is so strong throughout the party that the G. O. P. will be defeated in November that most anybody is willing to run for office. It has been figured out that there are 126 candidates for the seven nominations, twelve for Governor.

"Have you heard the latest news?" said Congressman William (Henry Clay) Sulzer in the lobby of the Seneca Hotel this evening. "In the confusion upstairs a delegate was pushed into the Osborne headquarters."

The convention presents two sartorial exhibits, Packy McCabe, leader of Albany county, and John H. McCreary, McCarty's successor in Kings. The Hon. Packy appeared with a four-in-hand scarf of the latest Baccus shade, the new tint which is between red and rose. His waistcoat was Woodruffian. Mr. McCreary changed religiously from morning civility to afternoon frocks, keeping speckless and immaculate.

The delegates are saying that they would rather convene in Rochester than any other city save New York, but that there is such a thing as overdoing hospitality. Congressman Francis Burton Harrison, who holds levee at the Powers House, said this morning that the band hired by the Chamber of Commerce played until 3 o'clock this morning.

"And when I woke up it was sitting on my bed," said Harrison.

Rochester is vain of its cantaloupes. They grow them big and sweet, and red-fleshed in this country and the gardeners were asked to produce all they could of their best crop for the delectation of the Democrats. A good many folks have contracted for a supply to take home with them.

"Can't match them in New York," said Arthur McLean, the Newburgh leader.

The lobby of the Whitecomb was jammed this afternoon with candidates and delegates when a bellhop twisted through the crowd singing out "William F. Hearst, William F. Hearst." For half a moment the hour of talk stopped. There was a movement toward the desk. Here is the appeal made to the clerk.

"Say, if Mr. Hearst has come here tell me his room number. I have an appointment with him."

There was a good deal of surprise today when the candidacy of Supreme Court Justice James A. Betts of Ulster county was placed in all of the hotel lobbies. It was commented on generally that such advertising was most unusual on the part of the judicial candidates or their managers.

Edward M. Shepard, one of the leading candidates for Governor and chairman of the platform committee, is one of the roughest men in convention preliminaries. Mr. Shepard brought three secretaries with him from New York and the click of their typewriters is heard until late in the night.

Mrs. William Sulzer, wife of the Congressman, is something of a campaigner herself. While the Congressman is conducting an energetic campaign, she is also busy trying to help him realize his ambitions. She visits all of the headquarters of the delegations and has a smile and a pleasant word for everybody.

Hiram Edgerton, Republican Mayor of Rochester, is staying up late trying to make things pleasant for the Democratic visitors. Mr. Edgerton's ample figure, black statesman's hat and rather old-fashioned long-tailed coat is seen in the lobby until the tiny hours. If Terence O'Brien, a Tammany dock inspector, teased the Mayor by telling him that the information of Main street laid all over Broadway's electric show.

One of the topics most discussed today was whether Charles F. Murphy, ex-Mayor of New York, would be seen in the lobby until the tiny hours. If Terence O'Brien, a Tammany dock inspector, teased the Mayor by telling him that the information of Main street laid all over Broadway's electric show.

Ex-Sheriff Robt. Chandler of Dutchess county, whose name has appeared pretty frequently of late in the news from Paris, is out of politics. Word came to the delegates today that Edward E. Perkins of Poughkeepsie, a successful Robert Warrup's attorney, had laid all over Broadway's electric show.

Some of the strong arm work done in the Carnegie Hall convention two years ago will be undone here. A number of men who were put on the State committee at that time will be shelved. Charles A. Rattigan, editor of the Auburn Citizen, will succeed William R. Harper, and William S. Townsend of Utica will take Harry S. Patten's place. Talking to the Saratoga rough house one of the leaders said today.

"Roosevelt's cleanup at Saratoga lost anything. Finny (Conners) did in Carnegie Hall, and Finny's methods were not gentle."

The young spearheads of the party are already in demand for stump tours. Francis Cullen of Oswego, now practicing law in Watertown as a member of Judge Purcell's firm, made a great hit two years ago, and the State committee has picked him as one of the stars of the coming campaign.

William Temple Emmet, a descendant of the famous Irish martyr, who is here, is a leader of the Democratic League of New York County and is attracting a good deal of attention. He is a picturesque and interesting figure and he is constantly pointed out to the Irish delegates as a man with the blood of Robert Emmet in his veins.

Rochester is making a strong bid for the name of the most hospitable town in the State and the friendliness of the people is suggested by the "Ask Me" buttons appearing everywhere today. Some mucky pretty Rochester girls are wearing the button.

One of the men they count out to you here is John FitzGibbon, the labor Mayor of Oswego, who won his place with the biggest majority on record in that town. They call him the "Oswego" because he has made out to take the whole job. He is a fighter and if the convention forgets to be good he is apt to take a hand.

Congressman Sulzer has all the other aspirants for the head of the ticket lined up in the matter of picture display. There is a large one, which shows to advantage the famous Sulzer forehead hanging from a gold-framed banner over a desk in the Seneca Hotel, and smaller ones decorated every pillar. There is a strong likeness between Mr. Sulzer and J. E. Doherty, who is appearing here in "The House Next Door."

The House Next Door is a young woman with an autograph album was trying to catch up with the Congressman as he chased his room about the hotel today.

HELD AS A SPY UNDER BAIL. German Officer Will Be Tried for Sketching English Fortifications.

Portsmouth, Sept. 20.—Lieut. Siegfried Helm, a German army officer, was arrested while making sketches of the fortifications here in the early part of the month and was committed for trial today by a magistrate.

Helm was released under $500 bail.

ROMAN HIT BY AUTO BUS. Boston Police Asked to Find A. Pell, Who Was Released After Arrest.

Boston, Sept. 20.—A fatal crash occurred yesterday night, when a horse-drawn carriage was struck by a motor car, killing a man and wounding a woman.

HELD AS A SPY UNDER BAIL. German Officer Will Be Tried for Sketching English Fortifications.

OF THE ALBANY ARGUS, AND PATRICK E. MCCABE.

OF THE ALBANY ARGUS, AND PATRICK E. MCCABE.

ROCHESTER, Sept. 20.—Democrats who have been going to the State convention for upward of half a century cannot recall a time when there was a bigger crop of candidates. The feeling is so strong throughout the party that the G. O. P. will be defeated in November that most anybody is willing to run for office. It has been figured out that there are 126 candidates for the seven nominations, twelve for Governor.

"Have you heard the latest news?" said Congressman William (Henry Clay) Sulzer in the lobby of the Seneca Hotel this evening. "In the confusion upstairs a delegate was pushed into the Osborne headquarters."

The convention presents two sartorial exhibits, Packy McCabe, leader of Albany county, and John H. McCreary, McCarty's successor in Kings. The Hon. Packy appeared with a four-in-hand scarf of the latest Baccus shade, the new tint which is between red and rose. His waistcoat was Woodruffian. Mr. McCreary changed religiously from morning civility to afternoon frocks, keeping speckless and immaculate.

The delegates are saying that they would rather convene in Rochester than any other city save New York, but that there is such a thing as overdoing hospitality. Congressman Francis Burton Harrison, who holds levee at the Powers House, said this morning that the band hired by the Chamber of Commerce played until 3 o'clock this morning.

"And when I woke up it was sitting on my bed," said Harrison.

Rochester is vain of its cantaloupes. They grow them big and sweet, and red-fleshed in this country and the gardeners were asked to produce all they could of their best crop for the delectation of the Democrats. A good many folks have contracted for a supply to take home with them.

"Can't match them in New York," said Arthur McLean, the Newburgh leader.

The lobby of the Whitecomb was jammed this afternoon with candidates and delegates when a bellhop twisted through the crowd singing out "William F. Hearst, William F. Hearst." For half a moment the hour of talk stopped. There was a movement toward the desk. Here is the appeal made to the clerk.

"Say, if Mr. Hearst has come here tell me his room number. I have an appointment with him."

There was a good deal of surprise today when the candidacy of Supreme Court Justice James A. Betts of Ulster county was placed in all of the hotel lobbies. It was commented on generally that such advertising was most unusual on the part of the judicial candidates or their managers.

Edward M. Shepard, one of the leading candidates for Governor and chairman of the platform committee, is one of the roughest men in convention preliminaries. Mr. Shepard brought three secretaries with him from New York and the click of their typewriters is heard until late in the night.

Mrs. William Sulzer, wife of the Congressman, is something of a campaigner herself. While the Congressman is conducting an energetic campaign, she is also busy trying to help him realize his ambitions. She visits all of the headquarters of the delegations and has a smile and a pleasant word for everybody.

Hiram Edgerton, Republican Mayor of Rochester, is staying up late trying to make things pleasant for the Democratic visitors. Mr. Edgerton's ample figure, black statesman's hat and rather old-fashioned long-tailed coat is seen in the lobby until the tiny hours. If Terence O'Brien, a Tammany dock inspector, teased the Mayor by telling him that the information of Main street laid all over Broadway's electric show.

One of the topics most discussed today was whether Charles F. Murphy, ex-Mayor of New York, would be seen in the lobby until the tiny hours. If Terence O'Brien, a Tammany dock inspector, teased the Mayor by telling him that the information of Main street laid all over Broadway's electric show.

Ex-Sheriff Robt. Chandler of Dutchess county, whose name has appeared pretty frequently of late in the news from Paris, is out of politics. Word came to the delegates today that Edward E. Perkins of Poughkeepsie, a successful Robert Warrup's attorney, had laid all over Broadway's electric show.

Some of the strong arm work done in the Carnegie Hall convention two years ago will be undone here. A number of men who were put on the State committee at that time will be shelved. Charles A. Rattigan, editor of the Auburn Citizen, will succeed William R. Harper, and William S. Townsend of Utica will take Harry S. Patten's place. Talking to the Saratoga rough house one of the leaders said today.

"Roosevelt's cleanup at Saratoga lost anything. Finny (Conners) did in Carnegie Hall, and Finny's methods were not gentle."

The young spearheads of the party are already in demand for stump tours. Francis Cullen of Oswego, now practicing law in Watertown as a member of Judge Purcell's firm, made a great hit two years ago, and the State committee has picked him as one of the stars of the coming campaign.